

...and Kyroot said:

A clever king, and an eight cylinder Revolutionist might both oftimes announce that their last change will BE their last change.

...and Kyroot said:

Those who do not know the joke are doomed to repeat it.

...and Kyroot said:

Outrageous people have outrageous cells.

...and Kyroot said:

Every statement that pleases one disturbs another. (And believe-it-or-don't,
but there are People in the City who don't like the outcomes and conclusions of addition and subtraction.
Go figure, eh what.)

...and Kyroot said:

A one legged Man NEEDS a ritual.

...and Kyroot said:

One guy said he hoped to use his political connections to better his position in life by being appointed Official State Schlepper.

...and Kyroot said:

Any victory that encourages growth is an honorable one.

...and Kyroot said:

Ordinary "happiness" ain't shit.

...and Kyroot said:

And a spokesperson for the National Emergency Weather Service warned that even after the present front passes there would still be "one great danger" which he referred to as the "one great danger."

...and Kyroot said:

Never count your chickens.

...and Kyroot said:

A king was being critical of someone, and brought himself up by thinking,
"Oh, I guess I shouldn't be so critical.", then he thought a moment more, and said, "Hell, I EXCEL at being critical, plus, it's my job."

...and Kyroot said:

Hell is filled with other people's plans that NEARLY worked.

...and Kyroot said:

Insofar as the City is concerned: If you're getting older, and you're not getting piss-der you're not getting old correctly.

...and Kyroot said:

You gotta admit, being MAN'S god wouldn't be that big a deal.

...and Kyroot said:

One guy was trying to recount to another the background of a certain family's wealth, and as he was struggling with the details he remarked, "Well, it just shows how much such success stories mean to a man like myself.", and the other feller sez, "You mean to a man, himself, well-off?", "Naw, a man with a bad memory."

...and Kyroot said:

Must we ALL not ultimately surrender to reality?
(Don't you bet on it.)

...and Kyroot said:

Don't be a spokesman for ANYbody.

Yes, I did say "any".

...and Kyroot said:

Read a City quote that said, "The distance between what Man knows, and what He needs to know appears to be ever increasing.
but what's really expanding lies within the idea "appears."

...and Kyroot said:

You can't let the brutes get you down, especially if you're one OF the brutes.

...and Kyroot said:

Man IS the soup of the day.