

...and Kyroot said:

Even if you don't know THE secret you can know A secret. (And even if you don't know A secret, you can pretend to know
SOME thing.)

...and Kyroot said:

Even deep-fried theologians, after grueling hours of religious debate, will finally turn to politics, and court gossip.

...and Kyroot said:

That without limits cannot by City minds be possessed.

...and Kyroot said:

Were it not for the continuing acquisition of new toys and trinkets how would City folks even appear interesting?

...and Kyroot said:

All"sound"advice is much too loud

...and Kyroot said:

Conversation Delta-Y: "May I help you with your packages?"
 "I have no packages."
 "May I get you some?"

...and Kyroot said:

Why be $8\frac{1}{2}$ -by-14 in an $8\frac{1}{2}$ -by-11 world?

...and Kyroot said:

While others in the City may continue to debate questions of morality, propriety, and proper conduct, let me ask you more specifically: Can you see - can you even
imagine seeing any conflict between
"nature"
and intelligence?

(In case you didn't notice,
that's a wrap on that subject.)

...and Kyroot said:

I am disturbed by the similarity of the words "art", and "fart."

...and Kyroot said:

Since everyone wants what's in short supply would it help to warn of a coming run on dumbness?

...and Kyroot said:

You know, a fellow could make a fortune in the intellectual-office-place if he could develop a "white-IN."

...and Kyroot said:

There's this chap with a seven band equalizer who lives near Kyoto who sez
he knows of a certain
undiscovered natural law that doesn't seem to apply to anything.

...and Kyroot said:

If you "aim to please"
you'll hit 'em in the knees.

(Heads up, yall.)

...and Kyroot said:

A Real Revolutionist would do ANYTHING for profit. This sounds harsh and venal to those who don't realize that the whole trick is in actually knowing what IS profit.

...and Kyroot said:

You can always take at least ONE step out of your way.

...and Kyroot said:

In the City, when it comes right down to it (which it may yet do), to be an expert in any area is just to be learned in naming the tools of the profession. That is, in being skilled at identifying the laws, principles, and statistical and measuring instruments of the discipline, while having no actual possession of the information for which the tools ostensibly exist.

...and Kyroot said:

Everything built in the City is made to be repaired.

...and Kyroot said:

Those who seek sexual advice fucking need it.

...and Kyroot said:

In the Law tis said "You can't slander the dead."; so how come they don't enforce this idea the OTHER way around, for christ's sake.

...and Kyroot said:

In that night time peculiar unto them, Revolutionists sleep with giants.

Handwritten text, possibly a signature or a line of code, spanning across the middle of the page. The text is heavily obscured by noise and artifacts, making it illegible.