What ~~everyone else~~ imagines, a Real Revolutionist knows, and what everyone ~~else knows~~ a Revolutionist forgets.

The only condemnation worth a damn is self condemnation, (and even that is only worth half
a damn.)

The routine info/energy exchanges between Men are always reflections of prevailing official City reality, and do not begin to convey, or touch the level of Revolutionary data.

If you don't think that sequence is damn near everything, just try and change your place in line.

One ole City atheist said that the only down side to his situation was that His only source of advise was His lawyer.

One guy sitting next to me on a park bench in the City confided that he found the whole concept of death "droll."

"I'll tell you what it is.", he cried, "You want me to tell you what it is?
O.k., I'll tell you. The human race is either organized crime, or codified suffering."

There's this wiry guy who lives in Oslo who runs about the neighborhood all the time shouting, "So what's it with you?" Some of his neighbors wish he would move.

One west coast Revolutionist told His partnership, "Don't call me, I'LL call me."
