

...and Kyroot said:

At this level, the Great Dumb Machine produces all the energy necessary...
(and aren't we all extremely grateful.)

*
...and Kyroot said:

* * *
If information WAS linear inch worms would be in graduate school.
.

...and Kyroot said:

If someone has to tell you, "Don't look now." you should have already looked.

...and Kyroot said:

One ole planetary sore head muttered, "If original thoughts were bloody most folks could still wear their white suits."

...and Kyroot said:

Remember: If you're not smarter than yourself you're not smarter than ANYbody.

...and Kyroot said:

And yet another fission can be made of the universe's intellectual creatures, the division into those who care what they think, and those who care what others think about them.

...and Kyroot said:

Some info is like chlorine in man's earth pool, encouraging him to keep his eyes closed.

...and Kyroot said:

Only the teensey weensey, trial-size mind becomes cross over cross currents.

...and Kyroot said:

On some paradoxical mornings this one chap would look deeply into the mirror over his bathroom sink and say, "There's no doubt
I deserve the best,
and look what I got."

...and Kyroot said:

On this one star over near the foggy quadrant in all their sporting events both teams wear the same uniforms...one of the benefits, so they claim, is that the games go on so long that the spectators really get their money's worth.

...and Kyroot said:

Originality doesn't count for much once its un-originalized.

...and Kyroot said:

I realize that in some quarters of your world ordinary justice seems scarce, but at least be comforted by knowing that EVERYONE deserves to be as dumb as they are.

...and Kyroot said:

One day, one guy, finding himself just TOO entirely happy, stared himself dead in the mirror and declared, "O.k., buster, I'm from the Fun Patrol and we've got our eyes on you."

...and Kyroot said:

One interesting aspect of new info when it first comes to roost in your own brain is that at first it doesn't talk out loud.

...and Kyroot said:

One ole sorehead on some equatorially unbalanced days would whine, and insist that in private, most famous people were about as exciting as white bread.

...and Kyroot said:

Only the defeated - and, oh yeah, the simplistic, that's it, only the defeated and the simplistic must remember the war,
AND hold a grudge.
("May be," cried out one little voice, "But that still doesn't address the problem of man's internal battles with himself."
Now you see, THAT'S why I call such little voices LITTLE...like in simplistic.)

...and Kyroot said:

Just before going to sleep each night, one guy would tell god that if he had anything he planned to send him to please have it delivered before 8:30 a.m., or wait until the next regular business day...
"please."

...and Kyroot said:

Planning your future is not the same as HAVING a future.

...and Kyroot said:

To a Revolutionist's ear ALL talk is hyperbole. ..

and Kyroot added:

Oh yeah, and cute too.

...and Kyroot said:

When seen from a foreign perspective, each person IS the actual boundries and limits of their own information.

(P.S.:When viewed up-close
the situation is oftimes reversed.)