Some men wait,
anticipate
That Life will bring out
A Second,
Revised Edition of them.

Steady as she goes;
Beware the Remainder Bins.)

One way,
If not to actually,
"Trick 'em",
At least to keep 'em
Off balance,
Is to continually
Go up to the band
And ask if this is Going to be their,
"Last number?"

If the ordinary intellect
Extended its specious, critical view
Of human behavior into non mortal realms
Man would believe that
Oranges mistakenly appear on citrus trees,
And that birds fly just for spite.

A certain gentleman told his nephew (who he sometimes used as a "substitute kid") that those who cry out , "It's more trouble than it's worth."
usually don't know the actual worth of stuff;
.....(He noted, for the sake of fairness,
that there IS another much more disturbing possibility.)

As one man's watch ran faster,
He sighed,
"The atmosphere condenses,
And grows heavy."

One day an ole man
called a kid from his activities
and said,
"Sit down here my boy,
I've got something important to tell you.";
once they were settled the elder continued,
"I am not always as I appear to be.", and the lad,
sensing he had little time left for juvenile pursuits screamed to himself, "I thought you said 'IMPORTANT'!"

"O.k., you guys,
Who's goin' over
And dance with ignorance?"

Over on this other world

(You've feared might exist)

The battle cry of their Aggressive Institution is: "Courage is one thing -

Revenge,

Everything else."

The Power Of Words: Part Three, Section Seven, Example Twenty-Nine:
In the prime-cut of his years,
This one fellow switched his profession
From magician to mortician
Simply because he still couldn't spell "prestidigitator".

.....(Now that I am forced to
"Think about it",
Kinda makes you glad that
Man's such a short,
Easy word - eh?)

Over in the Numerical-And-Problematic sector of this universe
are twin planets,
on one of which they believe that confession and any verbal revealing of what one is produces quantum bits of new personal strength while on the other orb they vehemently hold to the opposite;
...(At times these two worlds are closer together
than they are far apart,
and at other times they are nearer to you than you are to them.)

As they penetrated

The cellular wall of this one universe

Our travelers were confronted with a gargantuan sign

That read,

"Welcome To Our First And Only

A first guy says,

"Living in an apartment's not

What it used to be.", and

His partner-guy says,

"But neither is anything else.",

To which the guy replies,

"You mean any WHERE else, don't you?",

Partner says,

"Do I?"

.....(Later that day

The first guy thinks, "Hummm,

A nice condo by the Frontal lobes might be nice.")

Over on this one growing little planet
They decided to allow the Formation of religions
Inasmuch as they'd already been Tricked into permitting political parties,
But it WAS determined that They'd both have to share the one name of,
"Shut Up And Sit Down."

Inthat there are no records
Of one religion's invasion of the Territory of an already established one's Setting off a price war.

With a burst of Unexpected mean
And spleen
This one ole guy screamed out,
"That's it! -
Enough!, -
I've had it!,
If I hear one more person
Whine and go on about the 'Good old days'
One more time,
I swear to you -
There's gonna be serious trouble.", and
His brain suddenly looked up and snarled,
"You talkin' to me?"
