One expelled student
Took the platitute
So beloved by linguistic philosophers.
That says,
"Everything is what it is,
And cannot be another.', and Combining it with the subversive element
That states,
"Everything is what it is and then some.", and
Was able to construct a non-lethal
Incendiary device that first Lit up, then
Destroyed his own, old labratory.

One of the tongue lashers

Over in the speaker's area of the park

Concluded his remarks by declaring,

That all the lame should be able to.-

With impunity,

Cripple one other person", and

A surly sort standing by the side said,

"I thought that's what's goin' on already."

Another example of

Breath-taking-justice

At a confined, local level;

Guy says,

Whenever I'm frightened I sing to myself.", and

His partner says,

"The only thing that really frightens me is Sometimes I hear this really, really terrible singing."

One of the most critical connections a man has with an ordinary existence is his interface with seriousness.

...(but, a Kyroot codicil:

Besides all that,
you need to remember that if you're gonna survive in the City;
The sillier it is the more serious you gotta take it.)

...and Kyroot said;

One of those speakers over in the park was causing quite a commotion, and when I got there he was just saying,
"Those who want power should TAKE power;
This is the only seemly approach.".....(Was he referring to the Primary or Secondary world?
...does he even know
the difference?...
...do you?)

One guy,
when trying to be serious with himself
would say,
"Hey man, I be serious.", then he'd have the biggest, ole warmest laugh.

...and Kyroot said:

Something that makes you

Laugh at noon

Can make you cry at midnight;

Does this have to do with the Nature of thought?, time?, or

With the formation and consideration of such inquiries as this?

(Or,

A variation:

Might the presentation of a problem

Be part OF the problem?)

Now here's one for you;
I knew this guy who when finished
Writing certain letters.
Would seal them up in the envelope
Only to immediately open it,
Then re-seal it in a manner that Made it quite obvious it had been once already opened,
Then he would send it right along
For the recipient's benefit.

.....(I have reason to believe
He would also do this Verbally.)
