...and Kyroot said:

There was this one guy who decided it would be a nice idea to assign a numerical value to each of his thoughts;
it did not, however, work out - he couldn't count that low.

...and Kyroot said:

A king with no foes
Is but king-for-a-day;
This may be all that's needed
In a land of all new kingdoms.

...and Kyroot said:

As the water reached the boiling point and began to splash through the awaiting coffee one bean said to another, "No pain, no gain."

...and Kyroot said:

One guy said he was serious -
But he wasn't.
This was his form of seriousness.

...and Kyroot said:

One chap explained his failure to more fully implement and enjoy the "instrument of his mind" as due to his inability to "get it tuned."

...and Kyroot said:

Journalistic note from out Primaryville's way: If you CAN actually "report the news" there isn't actually much news TO report.

...and Kyroot said:

At another time & place This Kinda Stuff was called, "The Threat Of Too Much Thought."

...and Kyroot said:

In noting the increase in his errors and mistakes, this chap explains it by saying how he recently got an unbelievably good deal on a large shipment of erasers and white-out.

...and Kyroot said:

There was this one guy
who would often talk to his brain, and sometimes (I suppose just as a joke)
it would pretend it didn't hear him.

...and Kyroot said:

Whilst peacefully engaged in agreeable duo sauntering, the ole man said, "Kid-son, one of the real prizes of living in the city is that you can psychologically 'Explain away' anything you don't like or can't dominate and by so doing cast your own dumb, feeble self in an even BETTER light than before."

...and Kyroot said:

Anything you can talk about
No longer exists as it did before - (But otherwise, also).

...and Kyroot said:

```
In the Revolution
 if costs ever become AN object they will become the WHOLE object.
```

...and Kyroot said:

A man who can't take a joke won't live past Thursday.

...and Kyroot said:

It is well to remember that opinions,
just like socks,
come in all sizes...(plus you have the matter of the smell...)

...and Kyroot said:

One guy who'd been there said,
"If being king's
'No big deal,'
At least it's no great hardship either."

...and Kyroot said:

One elder creature told his younger version that "every penny counts";
he told the kid this many times over;
one day the lad spoke up and said,
"You keep telling me that 'Every penny counts,' but why don't you go ahead and give me all of it, and say, 'Every penny counts but they don't count for much'?";
the ole man replied,
"Well now, if I told you everything about everything today what would I have to tell you about tomorrow?"; the sapling thought on this, and thought on it some more
'til he said,
"Ah come on, this is another one of your
'Ole-man-jokes' - right?"

...and Kyroot said:

("Show biz aside"),this one man says he now understands that EVERY hour is "Amateur Hour".

...and Kyroot said:

Another viewer keeps writing to me requesting that I meet with him so's he can apprise me of his particular notions of the backstage workings of City life; in his letters he refers to these ideas as the,
"Great Structure of ICM; Intrigues,Conspiracies and Machinations".

.....(In his latest note he expresses his surprise over how pressed I must be for time.)

...and Kyroot said:

Then as times got better this one god got himself a little summer place - in a new location in his creatures' nervous systems.

...and Kyroot said:

The difference between youth and age is like the distinction between knowing what you want, and remembering what it was you wanted.

...and Kyroot said:

There is a mystery IN words.
and a mystery OF words;
Being able to untangle the latter destroys the former.

...and Kyroot said:

Striking a metric pose in the sunlight by the window,
the poetry instructor declared,
"Some human sorrows are TOO humble to be noted in verse," and in unison the class demanded, "Oh Yeah? - name ONE!"

...and Kyroot said:

Another guy said the best thing HE liked about being himself was that he didn't have to get all dressed up and go out to meet him.

...and Kyroot said:

Being king
Is being able to Look-out-the-window
Where EVER you are.

...and Kyroot said:

In Life: Many things are similar that only sound so.

...and Kyroot said:

When the kid was two hours old the ole man picked him up and said,
"Son, don't ever go LOOKING for trouble.", and the gurgling one thought, "NOW you tell me."

...and Kyroot said:

In most universes
there ARE certain roadway motels, and over-night cottages wherein you can pass a sunrise being just as angry as you like.

...and Kyroot said:

As things turned out,
Some of the late-comers Couldn't tell they'd come late.

.....(A fellow wrote the other day to say that if it weren't for the word "some" we'd all be "many",
and from there it'd be just a small step to us all being us all.)

...and Kyroot said:

Revolutionist pop quiz: Can mind become more bountiful
Than that which it perceives?
Can thought be greater beauty
Than that which gives it breath?

(...and Kyroot added:

As a hint, and for future reference you might care to note that the answer to almost all revolutionist questions is either,
"I know what you mean.", or
"I couldn't agree with you more.")

...and Kyroot said:

One guy writes to suggest that the distance - if not difference - between, "rebel" and "retail" may not be as far as one might think...

...(he admits he's personally unsure as to how far this might actually be - BUT...)

...and Kyroot said:

All right, settle down now;
our kiddy question of the day: Can you be the Prefix "non"
Without being the Prefix "anti"?

...and Kyroot said:

Over at a City refreshment stop,
over a refreshing brew,
a fellow swigged a healthy swig and told me that his brain was so large it once had its own zip code.

.....(How come I never get those kinda drinks?)

...and Kyroot said:

Even after the king was dead,
Many of the knights continued to mount imagination,
(As old ideas are commonly wont to do).

...and Kyroot said:

One of the foremost City Institutions issued the following announcement:
"A disproportionate number of people."

...and Kyroot said:

In one peculiar kingdom
The two prevailing political factions
Were called the Abrupt, and Gradual parties;
(Some years later
They will be known simply as The Acts, and The Facts.)

...and Kyroot said:

"Son", said the ole man,
"As you go through life you may certainly keep your eye peeled for a sack of lost money, but you might also keep the other eye out for a man who might know something without offering personal anecdotes in support thereof....Yes sir, you could keep a lookout for such a guy."

...and Kyroot said:

In the graduate schools of this one reality the final exit exam for all would-be priests, psychiatrists and politicians consists of but one question - "Heal thyself".

.....(Although the professional ranks there remain thin, all in all everyone seems in reasonably good condition.

.....[And in a related item:
If god ever calls, and he's complaining - hang up quick.])

...and Kyroot said:

Okay, okay, in a related, related item: If god calls and is whining and complaining - how ARE you gonna hang up?

... and Kyroot said:

Reflecting on the historic view now expressed as,
"The Peloponnesian War brought neither victorynor peace," this one student-ole-man said,
"But it brought plenty of Peloponnesians."

...and Kyroot said:

On a real humid afternoon this one king announced that he'd had it up to here with vacuous theory, and that from here on out no virtue counted that couldn't be seen.

...and Kyroot said:

Speaking from an alley way
a guy told me with some pleasure in his voice,
"I've filled my head with such agreeable crud that I've begun to find crud agreeable."

...and Kyroot said:

Message from a subversive fortune cookie: "If you're going to walk along the side of the road with a man with a game leg, choose your position with care."

.....(This is not to be confused with an earlier version that said, "Skeet shooting for the blind is NOT a team sport".)

...and Kyroot said:

This man tried to deal in antiques, but time kept speeding up on him.

...and Kyroot said:

Since local zoning laws wouldn't allow giving one's residence a serious sounding, anthropomorphic name, this one man wants to have his own name legally (or otherwise) changed to, Mister Dupe Of Dreams Or Slave Of Genes.

...and Kyroot said:

One guy had a different attitude
For every day of the week;
This didn't give him much time
For anything else - but He didn't care - 'cause
That was his attitude already for Friday.

...and Kyroot said:

The minds of men
Are given to dreams of conspiracy
For two quite solid reasons;
Because there ARE two conspiracies -
A true conspiracy,
And a false one,
And each feeds off the other
To the benefit of all.

...and Kyroot said:

Whenever he wanted to see one of his particular creatures this one god would send word several days in advance, but when he discovered that the creature involved then spent every available minute thinking over, and discussing the question, "What does god want to see ME about?", the big guy stopped actually ever meeting with any of his underlings and just settled for notifying them that he WANTED to.
.....(He says the original purpose is still being served.)

...and Kyroot said:

Then there was this other guy
Who says it's so much fun
Being himself
That he can't understand why he waited so long.

...and Kyroot said:

The speaker in the park declared,
"Forget all those tales of other worlds and future lives;
we have only now, and this is the place to either find satisfaction, or not at all," and a chap in the crowd asked,
"Can you guarantee that?", and the speaker replied,
"Of course not!"

...and Kyroot said:

Quite clearly and loudly
Cracked the voice,
"If I could SEE where I was going
I wouldn't be GOING anywhere."

...and Kyroot said:

The first advantage of High-tech thinking over older forms
Is that it's easier to service and repair
If it ever breaks down;
And the second advantage is That it never does.

...and Kyroot said:

Unlike muscles,
The words least used Remain the strongest.

...and Kyroot said:

One ruler gave everyone a choice - (except of course, himself).