

...and Kyroot said:

The good revolutionist glue
Requires that the user
Already be
HALF sticky.

...and Kyroot said:

Whenever he was about to start
A new novel, this one man would
First take a blank sheet of paper
And type on it, "The End",
Then lay it aside.....(just so he'd know it'd end well.)

...and Kyroot said:

Two men in a raincoat
Can get just as wet as one.

...and Kyroot said:

Always vote for the man with the most cliches.

...and Kyroot said:

One day this one reality
Told its little creatures,
"You won't believe
What I'm gonna do next!",
And one guy thought,
"Hell, I don't believe what you LAST did."

...and Kyroot said:

Looking up from his book, a kid asked,
"This writer says, 'The best humor is always unconscious' - what gives?",
And the ole man replied,
"Many men suspect there's another level to that which makes them laugh,
But they don't know what it is so - what the hell - they call it 'unconscious'."

...and Kyroot said:

One man would agree to being shot
ONLY if it were outside a
Prestigious address.

...and Kyroot said:

One god's reality for the year became, "Hey, don't ask ME!"

...and Kyroot said:

One man kept all the good thoughts
He had on Sundays, (his day off),
In a special file.

...and Kyroot said:

The mail this morning disgorged a card from a viewer who suggests that if we ever want a good new name for the show
we might call it, "Kyroots, Or, The Re-Awakening Of Language."

...and Kyroot said:

Neural kings must sit 'top shaky thrones or else the land will stagnate. ,

...and Kyroot said:

One ole man had this
To say to the kid,
"Lad,
A dictionary is your friend;
If, however it is your BEST friend
Then you probably have more PROBLEMS
Than you do words.

...and Kyroot said:

Calling down the "Complete and total wrath of Captain Irony"

Won't do you the least BIT of good.....(Who the hell d'ya think's Gonna NOTICE!)

...and Kyroot said:

It appears that he had

Set up his equipment so that

One thought would automatically trigger another one;

(His mother said he had done it

Early on so's to save time for later.)

...and Kyroot said:

This one chap has decided that the mysterious face
He sometimes sees in his breakfast window in the morning
COULD be his own:

He says he knows this explanation is ludicrous,
But that anything's better than just
Silently sitting there with oatmeal on your face.

.....(You may recall we've already noted that,
"The secondary world looks after its own.",
And even when the concern overwhelms the demand
It still provides physical homes and hospitals
To fulfill its obligation to the uncertain.)

...and Kyroot said:

In living, finite realities
There are always progressions,
But no beginnings.

...and Kyroot said:

Even as many passengers in Secondary Class
Continued to believe that the ship was - or at least, SHOULD BE, sinking,
A certain stowaway, who was secretly acting as
His own ballast and crow's nest,
Sang to himself this old, non-extant sea chanty
Which succinctly comments on the Contrary possibility of what the steerage crowd believes, (Sang he),
"Oh, the world of the mind
Can SAVE your behind."

...and Kyroot said:

"Remember",
Cautioned one reality,
"There are seven steps to captivity,
But only seven to freedom."

...and Kyroot said:

One of the afternoon-shift speakers over in the city park had this to say, one afternoon;
"If a wheel believes itself
To be on a magnificent journey
It's never satisfied
Unless it's turning.";

.....(And to everyone in the crowd who
Nodded their agreement
An organizer from the W.B.A.-- the Worry, Booze & Anger Union -
Handed a business card and application.)

...and Kyroot said:

Men's interest in biographies is the hope that others have done better;
In gossip, that they've done worse.

...and Kyroot said:

Another viewer writes, "Dear Kyroot:
If/, in some subtle, unexpected fashion ,
All these entities you speak of -
The ole man and the kid,
Gods and kings,
The primary and secondary worlds,
Mary and the Lamb,
The city and the revolutionist camp, squirrels and trees,
And the lightning and the goo - IF all these things
Are actually unnoted manifestations of our own,
Internal, mental world then how - HOW do you explain my uncle Floyd?"

...and Kyroot said:

In some bouncy and robust kingdoms
There is a surreptitious, Minister Of Contusion Calculations;
So while the people always enjoy receiving such
They do NOT know they're being tabulated.

...and Kyroot said:

One certain kid refused to listen to his
Ole man's stories of human horrors and atrocities,
And the elder pressed him, saying,
"But how will you learn of the crudeness of man?",
And the child replied, "Having you here trying to tell me such tales."

...and Kyroot said:

Addendum to my recent comments regarding a certain reality
Who sent out cards to each of his little creatures as soon as they were born;
It turns out he'd send a few of them another one around their fortieth birthday
Which says, "You can STILL 'come as you are'."

...and Kyroot said:

The ordinary, measured progress of man could be defined as: *The Secondary's attempt to Distance itself as far as Possible from the Primary
At whatever cost.*

...and Kyroot said:

Then there was this one god
Who'd let ANYBODY in his heaven
Who'd sign a statement
Absolving the Big Guy from
Any responsibility for their just finished life.

...and Kyroot said:

One guy didn't like anybody as much as he did himself -- WHAT A SELF!

...and Kyroot said:

The king scratched his chin,
Looked pensively off into the distance and said,
"It is possible that I am wrong.", and
The entire court rose up exclaiming,
"No, Sire, it's not possible.", and
He said, "You're right."

...and Kyroot said:

One ole sorehead's fatherly advice to his little burr-rated nipper,
"Never trust ANYONE who'll accept YOUR explanation."

...and Kyroot said:

One fellow found life so enjoyable

That he said he'd consider coming back - if they invited him.

...and Kyroot said:

Some good news and bad: The guy who so incessantly insisted that
He had invented prepositions
Has passed away.

...and Kyroot said:

"Since you're the kid
And I'm the ole man
I'm gonna call you kid,
And tell you some ole man stuff",
Said the ole man,
"Like this:
If you did answer all your critics
You wouldn't HAVE any critics,
And THEN where would you be?"

...and Kyroot said:

Ordinary attempts at acting ...

Serve to highlight the difference between

Real emotion, and human emotion.

...and Kyroot said:

(Here-we-go-again-time?): Hormones start fun,
Hormones can FINISH it.

...and Kyroot said:

As the king primed the knights for their latest adventure he declared,
"Who might finally
Say, 'I'm wrong',
Might as well
Stay at home."

...and Kyroot said:

Why might you think that World-Class-Tyrants, and
Guys-Who-Love-To-Dance-Forward-With-A-Passion
Are so inapt to make conciliatory noises when they step on your feet?

.....(Only those who got into the Ballroom free
Are inclined to complain about the Brutality and laxness of the bouncers:

.....[Everyone got in free].)

...and Kyroot said:

One man wouldn't hold extremely hot objects
If it was uncomfortable.

...and Kyroot said:

■ In one reality they define genius as: "The most excellent ability to get in Unparalleled trouble."

...and Kyroot said:

One family's motto was; Being sane's
No big thang.

...and Kyroot said:

The city definition of any word is never the same as the revolutionist's;
Even when they're the same - they're not the same.

...and Kyroot said:

Then there was this
ONE reality
That'd tell people
Damn-near ANYthing to get 'em to stay.

...and Kyroot said:

Automotive Tip For The Week:

If you talk to yourself you won't have to go

Over to city park and listen to those ragamuffin philosophers rant and cant;

And - Those of you who survive in a three dimensional reality can, on alternate weeks,
take the antipodal
approach.

...and Kyroot said:

"If", began the kid to the ole man,

"The presence of one thing - 'like ignorance' -

Indicates the absence of another - like knowledge - where does that leave OUR relationship?

.....(Several years back, during that heavy rainy period

We had just before the Cantaloupe Festival,

One ole man told me that sometimes he thinks the kid

Is on the edge of getting "Way too smart for him";

...And then he grinned like a possum on codine.)

...and Kyroot said:

In a reality described by the
Limits of its dimensions,
(Such as yours)
Everything has its shape,
(And don't be too sure that
This excludes thoughts).

...and Kyroot said:

While this order of diagnosis will not be made from linear examinations: The perceived illness
The secondary world
Are in fact,
Its vital signs.

...and Kyroot said:

If you don't LIKE to dance backwards and be dipped - Where you gonna go?!

...and Kyroot said:

If you can PROVE you're right in a secondary arena,
It doesn't matter whether you were right, or not.

...(Radical's Bedtime Moral: Shut the hell up in there!)

...and Kyroot said:

Whenever this one man was cornered into
Near-admissions that he "didn't know what he was doing",
He'd merely say,
"The pertinent documents are filed away,
In storage,
Out of state.",
(And believe it or not - He was TELLING the truth.)

...and Kyroot said:

One guy's parents deserted him literally,
But that alone proved insufficient.

...and Kyroot said:

One reformed, ole sore head,
Over at the weekly meeting of
The R.O.S.H. Association,
During their,
"Let's Be Positive Time",
When it came his turn,
Thought for a sec, then said,
"Even a SINKING ship is going SOME where."

...and Kyroot said:

One guy privately named his own most pleasing thoughts as,
The Poison That Satisfies.

...and Kyroot said:

Quoting from a letter we received:

"I have come to the conclusion that there is a difference Between 'Disliking someone and thinking they could change' and, 'Just disliking them'.";
(He goes on to attribute, in part,
Our show as the basis of his new assumption,
But I am disinclined to assist in the
Airing of such views.

.....[Reminder to the Internal Memo Desk: "Free publicity" is not actually FREE if it costs anything.)]

...and Kyroot said:

A certain experienced city elder instructed his children in these words,
"The quality of mercy is not strained as it comes from the factory."

...and Kyroot said:

Shortcut Cue in Micro-Psychology: Authors with the same name
Know the same thing.

.....(Well, SURE, it's improbable,
But THAT makes it at least
HALF probable.)

...and Kyroot said:

Whenever he wanted to have neat, tidy thoughts
This one chap would listen to baroque music,
And try to think in a seventeenth century manner;
Then when he wanted to be less restricted
He would play contemporary works
While letting his mind roam free and unfettered.

(Truth to tell - most of the time he couldn't tell the difference.)

...and Kyroot said:

A man in the city says that the
One thing experience does do to you
Is make you WISH you could learn from it.

...and Kyroot said:

One city-struck kid admired,

"Boy! - ' dead guys sure did write some neat stuff."

...and Kyroot said:

Update From The Squirrels On A Mortal Proverb: "UNCERTAINTY is the mother of all invention;
In fact, HELL! - it's the origins OF
You humans' distinct world."

...and Kyroot said:

EVERYthing's an allegory to a man with no place to go.

...and Kyroot said:

Trying to explain something that doesn't yet exist to another person is akin to Encouraging them to BECOME something that does not yet exist.

...and Kyroot said:

As it turned out,
Some of those who worked at the camp
Actually owned it.