

...and Kyroot said:

Having an advantage won't do you any good if it doesn't do you any good.

...and Kyroot said:

In the civilized presence of speech - the present doesn't measure up to mare's sweat.
(If up-to-date, evolved man was meant to live contemporaneously, He'd NEED no words.)

...and Kyroot said:

In attempting to elucidate on the curious, uncertain balance constant in his creation
This one reality admitted he'd never fully grasped the distinction between Ambiguous and ambidextrous.

...and Kyroot said:

To the more neurally complex,
Ordinary thinking is not unlike
Listening to radio coverage of a parade of perfumers.

...and Kyroot said:

"Tis said that everyone has a squirrel somewhere in the universe that looks just like them

...and Kyroot said:

Another round of appreciation for relative equity.....?... !: While kidneys will never Know the joys of thought,
Privates have pleasures
Neural generals only dream of

...and Kyroot said:

In a vigorous attempt to "come to grips" with things,
This one guy broke the pliers-of-his-mind.

...and Kyroot said:

(Progress is alive, well, and vocal): One chap says he's not so much concerned with
The barbarians at the gate
As he is over the declining quality of modern gates.

...and Kyroot said:

The most readable history of history will NEVER be written.

...and Kyroot said:

"If the umbrella is large enough its collapse can go unnoticed.";

After having said this the ole man added,

"But son, when I say 'large' I mean L-A-R-G-E!"

...and Kyroot said:

The question seemed to be:

"What would civilization be without gossip, frustration and intrigue?",

But was really:

"What is paradise to the homeless but where thought is plain and direct?!"

...and Kyroot said:

Speech: The only primal activity that can be suicidal.

...and Kyroot said:

Once a group of men,
Operating on the belief that,
"What is impossible for one may be accomplished by many.",
Constructed a paradigm of irrelevancy completely unique to their time and place.

...and Kyroot said:

Just sort of as a little tease,
This one reality used to tell its creatures,
"Read my lips", when it knew DARN well it didn't have any.

...and Kyroot said:

This one ole sorehead told his equally ornery offspring,

"Go ahead and hate people different than you — THAT'S what they're HERE for."

...and Kyroot said:

An accidental find can be
Almost as good as an accidental loss..

...and Kyroot said:

To help keep THEIR cat off balance

This one land let Wednesdays sometimes fall on a different day of the week.

...and Kyroot said:

When things weren't going particularly well
In the immediate vicinity of his own neighborhood head,
This one guy would turn on himself and say,
"Hey man - Get outa my face!"

...and Kyroot said:

There are as many examples of the manifold view
As there are things to look at.

...and Kyroot said:

One way to show you're serious is to dress like those already serious in your field.
...(Sad to say, but it worketh every timeth.)

.....[Of course it remains cheaper to pretend
Than to buy a new wardrobe].)

...and Kyroot said:

- Civilizations may be powered by thoughts, but not the converse.

...and Kyroot said:

The king's Sub Rosa Minister Of Individual Thought, told him during a private session,
"To truly think of new ideas you have to almost knee some old ones in the balls."

...and Kyroot said:

Whenever he had something else to say on the subject

This one god would first say, "I don't have anything else to SAY on the subject."

...and Kyroot said:

A viewer writes,

"Thanks to you,

Before I started watching your show

I thought about my own thinking more than Anything else, but now -

Thanks to you -- Yes sir-ree, but now, thanks to you..."

...and Kyroot said:

A visitor to earth, after attending his first religious meeting,
Agreed that it was a new experience,
And added that he found the most unusual aspect of it to be
That it was "one long commercial", yet no one seemed to care.

...and Kyroot said:

"Kid", said the ole man,

"Whenever things try to look bad,

And want to be discouraging,

Just remind them - and yourself - of this simple fact: Squirrels don't RIDE the bus.

...and Kyroot said:

According to one source: Not having time to think about what you ALREADY know,
IS the "human condition".

...and Kyroot said:

The world of man could not be sustained without the fierce pride of patriotism,
And yet none with a fixed address can assist the Requisite revolutionary struggle on which it is all covertly based.

(It is those physically on the front lines who proclaim,
"We're on the front lines.",
And who cannot be told that their current battle
Was already decided yesterday.)

...[So long as you believe you can return home
You'll never fight your OWN necessary foe].)

...and Kyroot said:

One city had rats in their sewer;
They had no sewer.

...and Kyroot said:

To subversive eyes it's almost as though life prints the good news in the fine print,
In the footnotes, even in invisible ink.

(This ain't really so;

The good, useful stuff is actually in the head lines,

But due to its large, blatant conspicuousness

It's damn near impossible to read.)

...and Kyroot said:

Laying down his guitar

He said, "When your hormones go - what's there left to sing about."

...and Kyroot said:

To whatever serious speculations its creatures would make,
This one reality would respond, "It's possible."

(I trust that by now
None of you will
"Knowingly nod"
As though this had
Some insightful pertinence.)

...and Kyroot said:

Where to find thoughts that will chew off their own foot if trapped?

...and Kyroot said:

Another ole man said to his kid,

"If you can ever get over being so tight-assed about everybody ELSE'S stupidity
You can get down and really enjoy your own."

...and Kyroot said:

All true revolutionist ideas make little sense at the time,
And none down the road;
Which explains why some of them later become quite well known and respected.
(And of course, totally misundertsood.)

...and Kyroot said:

Statistical "proofs" regarding human affairs
Are no proof at all,
(And damn little even in the way of evidence.)

...and Kyroot said:

If you get tired you can always go back to saying that if
Man was destined to find the answer he,(that is - you),could more readily do so.

.....(Sleep, drugs, anger and sex are NOT the only ways to take a break....not any MORE they're not.)

...and Kyroot said:

One man keeps a live bomb in his bed;

He says he does so to be sure that even while asleep he stays "edgy".

...and Kyroot said:

Few kings want to assist in plotting their over-throw,
And the cute thing is that it's not for the reason YOU'D imagine.

...and Kyroot said:

An up-to-date, electronic-age composer was heard to say,

"In today's world, if you can manipulate information, you can make music.",

And his cat, laying on a keyboard said,

"I always thought with humans that if you could manipulate info you might could make SENSE!"

.....(The maestro seemed not amused.)

...and Kyroot said:

There are always gods producing creatures for the primary purpose of Having them comment on their creator's handiwork;;
Such realities, and their focal point
Are in the rear ranks of progress,
And but minimally extant.

...and Kyroot said:

Speech produces the presence of mortal time.

...and Kyroot said:

The ordinary, (that is, those of ordinary mind),
Insist that it is most difficult to press on without a hero,
And you should respect that sentiment
Inasmuch as it is part of the stability against which we secretly struggle.

...(The extraordinary fairness of the subversive's position is that Neither mirrors NOR photographs are acceptable.)

...and Kyroot said:

If you accept the serious questions and concerns of mankind as your own
You may as well go ahead and dress for dinner and join them.

...and Kyroot said:

You might now care to note that
There ARE no finite realities,
Only limited concepts thereof;
Thus are human thoughts all relative
As is the comparable nature of things
IN a finite existence.

...and Kyroot said:

One man used to tell himself, "Hey, stand still.", to which he'd reply, "Ah, stuff it!"

(Some of this world's greatest conversations Never take place until YOU make them up.)

...and Kyroot said:

A secretly conceived calender in one Land O'Myths,
Proposes that one day a year, all the squirrels disappear,
And that all men suspect the same idea.

...and Kyroot said:

Those who curse the din of Babel deny their own ancestry.

(It is only over in Do Dah Land -[a foolish place where I'm sure none of
YOU want to live] - that steam engines continue to ridicule gas ones.)

...and Kyroot said:

As long as you can shift the blame,
There IS no blame.

(In the subversive's university
This is taught in PHYSICS,
Not in Psychology, or some other soft science.)

...and Kyroot said:

One serious, well respected, and quite well-to-do gentleman said that as far as He PERSONALLY was concerned - "Life had gone TOO far.",
(And upon hearing of this, Life's day was just totally ruined.)

.....(There is at least one land which has a story
That says that such stories as this one are misleading,
And that life DOES in some instances,
Take specific notice of what one individual man wants of it;
[The main problem here is that they can only
Identify such men after the fact,
Which leaves such imagined figures
Contemporaneously moot].)

...and Kyroot said:

One bundle thought, "Too many words are too similar - like, this and this,
and , that and that."

...and Kyroot said:

While, "Collective wisdom" is the cornerstone of all civilizations,
To a neural subversive it is the prototypical oxymoron.

...and Kyroot said:

Among the many weighty questions he initially undertook was this,
"Must that which is important always be serious?";
(He later decided that this one alone was sufficient.)

...and Kyroot said:

IF new intelligence conceived of a sin,
It would have to be something to do with, "looking back".

...(and for no apparent reason, Kyroot added:

Even under the best of ordinary circumstances,
"Stopping to catch your breath"
Can prove fatal.)

...and Kyroot said:

Slight changes that aren't frightening don't even deserve the name.

...and Kyroot said:

One guy's motto was,

"If you don't have anything to say, don't say anything.";

(He was laughed out of twenty-four different cities.)

...and Kyroot said:

To be direct you've got to be homeless.

...and Kyroot said:

Whenever he REALLY wanted his little creatures to do something specific
This one reality would exhort them, "Come on - Do it for yourSELVES!"

...and Kyroot said:

In the sport of the intellect,
A team player is forever captive of the score.

...and Kyroot said:

At the professional level,
A neat thing about being a neural revolutionist is that
No one can teach you how to do it.

...and Kyroot said:

The cultivation of his neural fields was based on the technique of, slash & burn.

...and Kyroot said:

Planes run on time;
Buses, a day late;
Revolutionists - yesterday.